MHDC are North Londonâ€™s velvet-clad oddballs, mixing alternative rock, chamber pop, and new psychedelia into something gloriously unpredictable. Think steampunk swagger, cabaret flair, and songs that swing from the dreamy (Trifle Filled Skies) written on The Ray Davies songwriting course, through the dark (Rose of New York, Dark Star) to the defiantly joyous (Happy Song).

With four songwriters (well, thereâ€™s also a song from the bass player!), a singing saw, and the ability to turn art-school ideas into irresistible tunes, their live shows are as theatrical as they are electric.
